

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

Internships: Design, Development, And Assessment

Charles H. Sides, Editor

Proposals are sought for an edited collection that will appear as part of the Baywood Technical Communication Series. The collection is an outgrowth of and follow-up to Internships: Theory and Practice, Sides & Mrvica, Baywood, 2007. What I am seeking are articles that explore “best practices” in the design of internship programs, their development and use, and their application as program/student assessment tools.

Possible topics might include (but are not limited to) any of the following:

- Internship Program Design
- Comparisons of Fulltime and Part Time Strategies
- Analysis of the Current Discussion of Paid or Unpaid Internships
- Internship Preparation
- Portfolios as Assessment Tools
- Internships as Program Assessment Tools
- Experiential Learning Pedagogies
- Internship Challenges, Problems, Solutions
- Managing the Partnership with Internship Hosts
- Internship Scope: Regional, National, International
- Relationship of Internships to Curriculum
- Internship Supervisory Strategies
- Funding for Internship Programs
- Relationship Between Internships and Student Placement upon Graduation

Chapter proposals are due: October 1, 2010

Acceptances notified November 1, 2010

Full draft manuscripts due April 1, 2011

Reviewer comments returned to authors June 1, 2011

Final manuscripts due September 1, 2011

Collection submitted to Baywood November 1, 2011

Publication expected in 2012

Inquiries welcomed: csides@fsc.edu